

David Newport LLB

David Newport leads a busy life. Born in New Plymouth he shifted with his family to Hamilton when he was 11. He studied at Victoria University in Wellington, spent 18 months travelling off the tourist trails in Australia, exploring Sri Lanka for a month, and making various stops throughout the Pacific; completed his law degree at Waikato University in Hamilton working part-time at Stace Hammond; then moved to Auckland.

Now he's back where he started and is enthusiastic about the return to New Plymouth. As a smaller specialised law firm, Dennis King Law offers him the direct staff communications and experience he enjoys in commercial law, civil litigation, intellectual property and resource management. And when he's not at work, Taranaki is just the place to be to accommodate his passion for surfing.
